

Pensacola Beach Dome House Survives Again

By Dr. Emily Baird

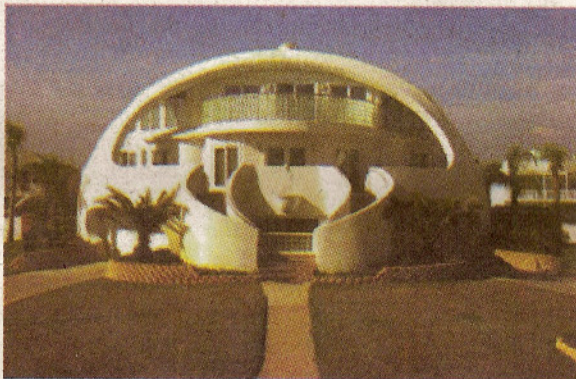

Pensacola Beach's Dome House on Ariola Drive, built to survive a hurricane, proved once again it was designed to withstand a storm--this time a different kind of storm. On October 14 a group of 60 revelers descended on the premises to celebrate Pat Brady Bernhard's 70th birthday.

It was a celebration to remember!

Looking radiant in a three-piece lavender Carol Little cocktail ensemble, Pat was surrounded by four generations of her relatives, neighbors from New Orleans and local friends.

Cocktails, and a variety of hors d'oeuvres were served, along

The Dome of a Home on Ariola Drive is built to withstand all types of storms- including the birthday partiers who danced up a storm to the tunes of Boogie, Inc. last month.

with a delicious buffet. Pat's children presented her with a beautiful birthday cake and took turns recalling special anecdotes from their childhood,

Pat Brady Bernhard celebrating her birthday on Pensacola Beach.

(some best forgotten according to Pat).

Music for the evening was furnished by Boogie, Inc. The guests, led by Pat and Dick Hart, literally danced "up a storm". Musical selections ranged all the way from boogie to a line dance, which ended the delightful evening.